

Chongzheng celebrated the Earth Hour on 28 March 2014. This was a school wide event where the lights and fans in the classrooms and air-conditioners in the air-conditioned rooms were switched off for an hour. This was well-received by the pupils as they personally felt the impact of global warming and they could also empathize with people living in the less fortunate countries where lights and fans are scarce in the schools. The school leaders and staff also role modelled by switching off the air-conditioners in their respective rooms.
